THE CURRICULUM CABINET

The Curriculum Cabinet was formed in 1984 to provide a means to recognize and use the specialized skills, talents and perspectives of the content area professional associations in Alaska. The Department of Education was involved in a new State School Board initiative to develop model curriculum guides in eleven major subject areas. Related regulations had been passed to ensure a strong relationship between curriculum, instructional practice and assessment. The Cabinet structure provided for direct, realistic input in the curriculum development process and related activities. Presidents of thirteen major professional educational associations in Alaska make-up the membership of the cabinet.

Alaska Arts in Education
Alaska Association for Computers in Education
Alaska Association for Health, Physical Education Recreation and Dance
Alaska Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development
Alaska Council for the Social Studies
Alaska Council of Teachers of English
Alaska Council of Teachers of Mathematics
Alaska Foreign Language Association
Alaska Health Education Consortium
Alaska Science Teachers Association
Alaska State Association for the Education of Young Children
Alaska State Reading Association
Alaska State Vocational Association

The purpose of the Cabinet is to advise the Department of Education in matters relating to curriculum, instruction, and assessment. The Department in turn supports the Cabinet associations by providing a Department staff member to act as liaison to promote association goals and activities that address statewide needs. Department support creates opportunities for inter-disciplinary conferences and activities through bi-annual Cabinet meetings, offers direct leadership training to the association presidents, supplies small amounts of funding to collect association input into curriculum and instructional materials underway in the Department, and gives increased visibility and credibility to the association for networking.

The spirit of collaboration born with the Cabinet is energizing, positive, and enriching. Together the Cabinet, the thousands of Alaska educators who belong to member professional associations, and Department of Education staff have begun a momentum focused on strengthening the education of Alaska children.

It was the consensus of the Cabinet at the October 1986 meeting, that membership in professional organizations should be actively encouraged by administrators as a means of professional growth. Encouraging newly hired teachers to become active in professional organizations is a common area of focus.

Alaska Arts in Education (AAE)

Purpose:

To encourage and strengthen arts in education by:
Initiating statewide arts in education projects; Coordinating appropriate Alaska programs and resources with regional and national arts and education organizations such as the Alliance for Arts Education; Fostering an alliance of artists, educators, individuals and groups interested in arts in education; Disseminating information on excellent art programs in Alaska.

Alaska Arts in Education represents four major disciplines of the fine arts: visual art, music, dance and drama.
